Let's Devote More Time to Our Children

"Come cycling with us - let's devote more time to our children" was the motto for the cycling tour organized by the Children's Safety Line of the Slovak UNICEF board. Entrants traveled at the end of September and beginning of October throughout Slovakia to symbolically take the mission from the children to the parents. The aim was to back up the world campaign targeted at children and parents spending free time together and the Children's Safety Line, which operates free 24/7, 365 days a year, on 0800 500 500. One of the main partners of the autumn cycling tour and campaign was the consultancy company AMROP HEVER Slovakia - Global Executive Search, which identifies with the idea that meaningful fulfillment of our children's free time does not only positively impact current living situations, but also creates a good basis for a high quality of life in the future. This notion also supports, in a direct and indirect way, the Children's Safety Line. "Social responsibility and company philanthropy are a strong part of our politics. We exceed the usual customary practices on the basis of deep confidence and a desire to contribute to the creation of values. We feel responsible to the society in which we work and live - we are raising our children and care about families," said Igor Šulík, Managing Partner of AMROP HEVER Slovakia.
